TUESDAY, JUNE 19, 1900.

Philadelphia will indeed prove a Quaker City to the Democrats. They are quaking in their shoes already at the thought of "McKinley and Roosevelt."

The French bakers hereabouts have gone on strike for shorter hours. They will have all the time to "loaf" that they want from now on until the lock-out is ended.

The Republican party will not lose any votes in California through the prompt action of the administration in removing the quarantine imposed upon the State by Dr. Kinyoun. It may not be the right thing to infect politics into the consideration of the subject, but all the same it is shown that the officials at present in charge of the nation's affairs have got good sense and judgment.

As the people of the State become better acquainted with Governor Gage they find much to admire in his bold, direct methods. Nothing less so revealed his character as the summary manner in which he suppressed the plague fakers and frustrated the scheme of bubonic politics being played in San Francisco. In his last round with Dr. Kinyoun the Governor laid the matter before the President with a swiftness and directness that left nothing further to be said. It was a strong man's way of dealing with an iniquitous proposition requiring instant and summary treatment. Governor Gage has met every phase of the situation with a surprising grasp and readiness, and his good work will not soon be forgotten. It is to be hoped that the plague fakers have been permanently silenced.

UNIVERSITY EXPANSION.

The growth of a great and powerful university is in no way more clearly demonstrated than in the increased number of its post-graduate students. Such a development shows the weight that attaches to the institution in the world of thought and education, and for that reason it is a matter of pride to Californians to know that the number of graduate students of the University at Berkeley has increased from 205 in 1893 to 229 in 1899-1900. Such a growth is an indication of confidence that means more for the future of this great State Institution than gifts of land, bequests or the establishing of scholarships, because scholars go to places of learning whose degree means something. And they are coming here. Not the least shred of the many skillful moves made by Stanford University when its doors were thrown open was the attraction to Palo Alto of numbers of baccalaureates from Eastern and Central colleges, who, when they received their M. A. degree from the new university, were only too anxious to add to its reputation elsewhere in order that they might enhance their own standing.

Their efforts are seen today in the remarkably high rank that a university of yesterday holds among similar institutions that are centuries old. Now at Berkeley there has been no marked effort to attract as post-graduate students those who have obtained their degrees in any one of its own colleges, and except by some tentative announcement, such as in the current register in the College of Mines suggesting that B. S.'s are urgently advised to take a fifth year of study, the new born influence to the north of us does not seem to be very active even yet. The growth, therefore, in spite of this evidence of non-activity is very gratifying. Incidentally, the increased number of graduates is of interest, showing either that California has been doing some advertising herself or has been receiving the benefit of the persistent and cleverly placed publicity of Stanford.

THE FOREIGN SITUATION.

The Baron Pierre de Comberlin in the Fortnightly Review has an article on the danger of a war between England and France, which he says is not improbable, owing to the activity of the Journalist, not only in France but also in England. The Baron should not worry. France is not, single-handed, seeking a contest with the British, whose magnificent empire has been cemented by the South African war, but it must be evident to the most careless observer that France is coquetting with Russia for an offensive and defensive alliance against all the world, which inevitably will lead to the destruction of the French as a nation. The mercurial temperament of the Celt will not permit him to view the situation of international affairs with calmness. He is usually living in the clouds, and that is what is the matter now. He is allowing himself to be made a cat's paw to pull the Russian chestnuts out of the fire in China, at any rate, and when Russia's occasion for French friendship is past the Celt will have to struggle along without the Czar's assistance.

The fact is that in the European conflict now being precipitated on the shores of the Pacific, England, Germany and Italy have been forced into an alliance against Russia and France. The two latter have sought every possible chance to attack or provoke England, and while Germany herself has been none too friendly, yet the logic of events leaves her no choice. The Emperor must be the Queen's ally. Japan is to be reckoned with, too, and will be found on England's side. Italy must march side by side with England or else fall to a lower rank in the family of nations than that which she now occupies. Thus the opposing forces are made to order, as it were, and the result of the war, in which America will take no part, will be some extensive alterations in the map of Europe and Asia. France will lose several of the southern provinces to Italy and may have to yield a new Alsace to Germany, while her Chinese dominions will naturally go to Japan. The Czar will have to release to England the real central of Afghanistan, while Japan acquires Korea, and Russia must be satisfied with a small slice of Manchuria, if given anything at all. Russia and France must lose. They do not possess the men or the money to win against the rest of the world.

THE ROOSEVELT BOOM.

There seems to be every possibility that Governor Roosevelt of New York will be McKinley's running mate. In spite of past denials that he is a candidate for the place and his protestations that he would not consider the nomination, the leader of the Rough Riders has been forced by one of the strongest movements in the history of American politics into a more non-committal position. Roosevelt will take the place of the he is forced to do it. The leaders of many States feel this and are determined that he shall take it, knowing the strength he will give the ticket. That Roosevelt is sincere in his refusal of the honor is patent to all. A man of his activity doubtless feels that in accepting second place he will be shelved four years hence. And his pronouncements are well founded in precedent, though there is no reason why a Vice President of the proper caliber should not emerge from his term in direct line for the first place in the nation.

The attitude of the Administration is consistent and safe in this light, in keeping its hands off. While a Western man would doubtless be more favored by the close advisers of McKinley, if the choice of the convention is Roosevelt the most perfect harmony will prevail in the great struggle. With his tremendous personal popularity, his remarkable vim and energy and all the influence which a successful military leader wields, the representatives of the Republican party now assembled at Philadelphia would make a strong and popular choice in selecting Governor Roosevelt for McKinley's running mate, and any doubt that might have existed as to the possibilities next November will be effectually removed.

Every good Republican resident of this city should so make his arrangements that he will be on hand at the McKinley ratification next Saturday night. We must make the event worthy in every way of our laurels as the banner county of California.

Now that Dr. Kinyoun's quarantine plan has been so promptly raised by Surgeon General Wyman, it will not take long for the whole country to realize that he was merely bluffing.

DEATH SUMMONS A PIONEER HOTEL MAN.

John M. Lawlor, one of the pioneer hotel keepers of the State, died suddenly from heart disease Sunday morning in San Francisco. Deceased was once the landlord of the Galindo Hotel in the city, and he also conducted the Oriental and Occidental Hotels and the Lick House in San Francisco. At the time of his death he was one of the managers of the Crocker estate. He came to California in 1858. He leaves a son, J. W. Lawlor, and a daughter, Miss Lillie Lawlor, who is at present studying music in London.

Owing to numerous calls for his services, he was forced to shorten his vacation. At the Geysers Dr. Dunn met a number of Oaklanders, among them County Clerk Frank J. Agler and family and Deputy County Clerk Charles P. Fugh. All were greatly enjoying their outing.

BRIDES AT THE ALTAR.

Miss Olive Snider Becomes the Bride of John Merrill.

The marriage of Miss Olive Irene Snider, well known in Oakland, where she resided for years, and John Snider Merrill was solemnized today at high noon at the First Congregational Church, San Francisco. The Rev. Dr. Sweeney, an old friend of the groom's family, came especially from the East to perform the ceremony.

The bride was attended by Miss Gladys Merrill. Harry Holbrook was the best man. Ralph Merrill, Dennis Searies, Frank King, William Hazelton, Otto Eastwood and Clarence Dossie acted as ushers.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white crepe de chine. The front was entirely covered with an overdress of net, and the bodice and sleeves were of the same material. A veil caught up with a bunch of orange blossoms completed the costume.

After the wedding there was a reception and bridal breakfast at the home of the groom's parents, corner of Washington street and Van Ness avenue. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Merrill will leave for the East, where they will remain three months.

The following were the numbers on the program: Musical solo, Miss Cunningham; song, Charles Hyde; piano and flute, Mrs. Barker and Rowland Parker; Military Drill Corps, boys from Christ's Church, Alameda; musical creation, Miss Bert Littlefield; song, Mrs. Mollie Jones; ice cream and cakes were served, after which there was dancing until a late hour.

The hall was beautifully decorated with a profusion of evergreens. The lights were of red, white and blue, which were most effective among the foliage. The platform was covered beneath a wealth of magnificent flowers and leaves. Mrs. Mary Hone, president of the corps, acted as chairman of the evening. Such re-registration began on the 1st day of January, and will be in progress at all times until forty days preceding the next election in November.

3. If born in a foreign country, upon his affidavit that he became a citizen of the United States by virtue of the naturalization of his father while he was residing in the United States, and under the laws of the United States, and that he is or would be an elector of the county at the next ensuing election.

sworn to before the County Clerk or his deputies, and that they can not, owing to the provisions of the new Registration Law, be sworn to before any other officer.
